A Social Ecological Model For

Socio-ecological models were developed to further the understanding of the dynamic interrelations among various personal and environmental factors. Socioecological models were introduced to urban studies by sociologists associated with the Chicago School after the First World War as a reaction to the narrow scope of most research conducted by developmental psychologists.

Ecological features and processes are essential for the provision of ecosystem services but are not the same as services (Palmer and Filoso, 2009, Tallis et al., 2011). Until there is some person somewhere who benefits from a given element or process of an ecosystem, that element or process is not a service (see Fig. 1). BRIs are indicators explicitly constructed to reflect an ecosystem's ...
