Abnormal Psychology Susan Nolen Hoeksema

Susan Nolen-Hoeksema (May 22, 1959 – January 2, 2013) was an American professor of psychology at Yale University. Her research explored how mood regulation strategies could correlate to a person's vulnerability to depression, with special focus on a construct she called rumination as well as gender differences.

Abnormal psychology is the branch of psychology that studies unusual patterns of behavior, emotion and thought, which may or may not be understood as precipitating a mental disorder. Although many behaviors could be considered as abnormal, this branch of psychology typically deals with behavior in a clinical context. There is a long history of attempts to understand and control behavior deemed ...

One of the most influential conceptual frameworks is Gross, 1998a, Gross, 1998b Process Model of ER. Within this model, ER is broadly defined as the set of strategies that individuals may use to increase, maintain or decrease their affective experience, including the feelings, behaviors or physiological responses that make up a given emotion (Gross, 1999).
