Dawn Of The New Everything

“Dawn of the New Everything covers fascinating ideas about technology and the future, but from a very personal place. It’s entirely unexpected and disarming to read about these concepts from an unabashedly subjective point of view.

'Dawn Of The New Everything' Argues For Human-Centered Technology. Dawn of the New Everything is techie guru Jaron Lanier's attempt to explain the origins of VR, both technically and philosophically. He's the perfect person to tell this story, too: Lanier founded a company called VPL Research in the 1980s that sold the first VR development kits to scientists, government contractors, and Hollywood studios.

Towards the end of my new book, Dawn of the New Everything, there's a description of a piece of music I used to play from inside VR. What you see here is a period video of one of my performances of that piece. You might wonder why the quality is terrible, and that means you're young.
