Italian Easy Reader Nuovo Cinema

One of Italian cinema's masterpieces, the Oscar-winning 'Nuovo Cinema Paradiso', directed by Giuseppe Tornatore, is retold here for learners of Italian. Growing up without a father in post-WW2 Sicily isn't easy, but Totò makes friends with Alfredo, projectionist at the town's only cinema, and develops a passion for movies...

New Italian Easy Reader! One of the Italian films I watched when I first came to Italy back in the 'nineties (before I had kids, before I had a business to run) was 'Nuovo Cinema Paradiso', which had won an Oscar in 1989 for best foreign language film. Wikipedia has a page on the film, as it does on more or less anything.

As an "easy" level reader it was fun reading Italian, even though it seemed over-simplistically written, as if by a child for example. Possibly the nuances of beautiful writing are impossible in an "Easy Reader"? I could never have put up with the plodding style if it were in my own language, for example.

The restaurant is losing many customers to a new rival restaurant (Da Giovanni's). Also, Artie spends increasingly less time cooking the food, delegating his Italian family recipes to non-Italian, illegal immigrant line cooks. Charmaine worries that Artie's constant presence on the floor, chatting to customers, is also hurting business.
